PROFILE

Motivated Computer Science graduate with over four years of hands-on experience across media leadership, IT helpdesk support, systems and network administration, website development, and multimedia design. Currently directs a Somali media outlet, including communications support for a WHO-partnered health awareness initiative. Skilled at troubleshooting hardware and software issues, maintaining Windows Server environments, and supporting end users in fast-paced, multicultural teams. Experienced in leading digital projects for civil-society and media organisations, with a strong interest in applying technology and data-driven tools to advance digital transformation and sustainable development. Comfortable working independently in remote, cross-functional settings.
